Become a corporate member and help the immunology community to thrive

Immunology is undergoing an exciting revolution, with remarkable advances in our understanding of the basic science that underpins immune system function coupled with the introduction of new therapies to the clinic after decades of research. At this pivotal point, the British Society for Immunology is bringing together all sectors of immunology research and innovation to build fruitful collaborations, and we want your involvement.

The British Society for Immunology is a charity and well-respected learned society with a global membership of over 3,500. By becoming a corporate member, you will align yourself with an internationally recognised organisation that represents some of the world's foremost experts on immunology. Your membership will support our mission to promote excellence in the field through our work in education and careers and sharing innovation via our journals and events. Our charitable focus also means that you will be supporting our programme of work to engage with patients and the public to increase understanding of how the immune system functions.

In return, corporate membership of the British Society for Immunology provides your company with many benefits and opportunities to raise your profile in immunology. These include greater exposure to the global immunology community through attendance at our events and advertising in our publications, discounts on exhibition space at key events, website listings, and free membership for your staff.

Our corporate members form a key part of our global immunology community. We aim to work with you as partners to foster international collaborations, which support immunology across the spectrum of the discipline. Come and talk to us about your needs and join our vibrant and growing immunological community.

About the British Society for Immunology

The British Society for Immunology is the leading UK membership organisation working with scientists and clinicians from academia and industry to forward immunology research and its application around the world. Our friendly, accessible community consists of over 3,500 immunologists, giving us a powerful voice to advocate for immunological science and health for the benefit of society.

Activities that our corporate members support

The British Society for Immunology runs a number of core activities to achieve our charitable aim to advance immunology for public benefit. These include a calendar of events and training activities, a programme of grants, prizes and awards, a focus on education and careers work and a schedule of public engagement activities. Through our two official journals, Clinical & Experimental Immunology and Immunology, and conferences, we promote shared knowledge and best practice.

Our Corporate Members enable all these activities to continue.

Our members come from 68 countries around the world.

Join our community

Becoming a corporate member of the British Society for Immunology allows you access to a global immunology community. Our Society is extremely well respected, with nine out of ten members reporting that they would actively recommend membership of the British Society for Immunology to their colleagues.

Our Society is currently in the middle of an ambitious five-year strategic plan. Over the past couple of years, our membership has increased substantially and we expect this growth to continue in future years. Our current focus is on harnessing the collective strength of our membership to increase our support, influence high-level policy and research priorities, strengthen public understanding of immunology, support current and future generations of immunologists across their careers and forge new partnerships across the spectrum of immunology.
